

A HERITAGE TO PRESERVE

The improvement of the heritage's value, its preservation and its protection are the principal objectives fixed by the city of Corte. Thus, it executes numerous actions : the OPAH, the Classification "Grand Site de France" of the Restonica Valley, the renovation of heritage and historical valued buildings.

Baliri

Starting point of the path : Walkers will discover there the high place of the Agricole and pastoral memory of Corte. Fences, gates in chestnut wood as well as renovated dry-stone walls marks out the path. The freshness of the place is animated by the rustle of the Tavignanu river that cross a few hundred of meters away the path of its famous affluent "A Restonica".

The Old City

Heart of the path : Visitors will be able to wander through the alleys made of pebbles and locals rocks. The many stairs composing the path lead to the staples of Corte's built heritage : the "Palazzu Naziunale", headquarters of the Independent Corsica government in Pascal Paoli's era; The Annunciation Church, or even the Belvedere.

Nid d'Aigle

Corte's Citadel is still THE emblematic site of the city. Its actual evolution and configuration are marked by History. Its construction started in 1418 to counter the Genovese's influence. Starting from 1769, the kingdom of France finishes the fortifications and builds, inside the ramparts, the Padoue's barracks, used by the French army until the XXth century.

Corte, flagship city of the Centre Corse

Corte offers a travel in the core of Corsican History to visitors, with a discovery of its exceptional heritage and environment.

Historical and cultural capital city, Corte becomes once again in 1981 the university city of the island, more than 200 years after its creation by Pascal Paoli, former "chief of the Corsican nation".

From the top of its emblematic citadel, Corte dominates its two valleys, where the "Restonica" and the "Tavignanu" wind and unite to flow to the sea.

From the most beautiful high lakes, passing by the Museum of Corsica and the meeting with local craftsmen and producers, Corte shares with pleasure everything that makes the deep and authentic soul of Corsica.

Beautiful and great stay in Corte !
